Robert J. Glushko Dissertation Prize Recipients

The 2013 recipients of the Robert J. Glushko Prizes for Outstanding Doctoral Dissertations/theses in Cognitive Science are:

- Dr. Douglas Knox Bemis III - 2011 PhD thesis “Simple Composition During Language Processing: An MEG Investigation” from New York University, précis
- Dr. Neil Cohn - 2012 PhD thesis “Structure, Meaning, and Constituency in Visual Narrative Comprehension” from Tufts University, précis
- Dr. Andrew Lovett - 2012 PhD thesis “Spatial Routines for Sketches: A Framework for Modeling Spatial Problem Solving” from Northwestern University, précis
- Dr. Liad Mudrik - 2011 PhD thesis “Processing Visual Context Violations: The Roles of Attention and Awareness” from Tel Aviv University, précis

The 2012 recipients are:

- Dr. Timothy F. Brady - 2011 PhD thesis “Structured Representations in Visual Working Memory” - précis
- Dr. Jennifer L. Culbertson - 2010 PhD thesis "Learning Biases, Regularization, and the Emergence of Typological Universals in Syntax" - précis
- Dr. Steven T. Piantadosi - 2011 PhD thesis “Learning and the language of thought” - précis
- Dr. Rachel Wu - 2011 PhD thesis “Learning (to Learn) from Spatial Attention Cues During Infancy” - précis

The 2011 recipients are:

- Dr. Vera Demberg-Winterfors - 2010 PhD thesis "A Broad-Coverage Model of Prediction in Human Sentence Processing" - précis
- Dr. Michael Frank - 2010 PhD thesis “Early Word Learning Through Communicative Inference” - précis
- Dr. Chi-Tat Law - 2009 PhD thesis "Mechanisms of learning a visual motion discrimination task" - précis
- Dr. Eric Mandelbaum - 2010 PhD thesis "The Architecture of Belief: An Essay on the Unbearable Automaticity of Believing" - précis
- Dr. Edward Vul - 2010 PhD thesis "Sampling in human cognition" - précis

Back to Glushko Award main page